

Recreational Release

What happened?

Members of the public unaware of the summer program of 'recreational releases' lost several bags of valuables at a downstream waterhole when waters rose.

This release is a consent requirement and is not acknowledged in local council and other tourist website 'advertisements' for the waterhole which is accessed by locals and tourists alike.

Hydro Scheme

What did we learn?

Capex and opex intensive engineering solutions to warn of the impending water flow bring inherent vulnerability due to vandalism and constraints associated with remote operation. Solutions to collaborate more closely with other stakeholders such as councils and tourism sites to share in managing the risk have been progressed.

Immediately security patrols of the area for the remaining seasonal releases have been arranged to warn members of the public of the risk and downstream locations of the immediate risk.
